Mrs Starkie was very impressed with the enthusiasm and care shown when the Year 2 students from Room 5 constructed model aboriginal bark huts in our natural playground. They used a wide variety of found materials and some really strong building techniques to build homes that would withstand some of our wet and wild Manjimup weather.

Information from Wikipedia .... “A humpy or gunyah was a small, temporary shelter made from bark and tree branches, traditionally used by Australian Aborigines, with a standing tree usually used as the main support. The word humpy comes from the Jagera language, a Murri people from Coorparoo in Brisbane.”
I found a really short, fat stick and dug a hole to put in. I put soil around it to make it stay and found some twigs, bark and sticks to put around it. Jessica Arnott
